Dec.9 Vol.8

To [Lilian] Whiting No.815

[Trinity Church in the City of Boston] The writer thinks Miss Whiting may have misinterpreted his last note. Tells her to stop writing about Spiritualism for a while. Says that when she resumes writing about it, her work will have freshness and vigor and will be more pleasing to her. Thinks he was impertinent in trying to advise her in his earlier letter.

To [Lilian] Whiting No.816

[Trinity Church in the City of Boston] The writer praises the optimism of Miss Whiting's Boston Days. Says that "someone who has the public ear" should assert that the present age has its "intellectual and spiritual strength." "Boston is not dead." Says that Mr. Winthrop was born May 12,1810 and not 1800. Thanks Miss Whiting for a check for Trinity's Christmas. Discusses the finances of Trinity Church. Urges her to come to Trinity.

«Greene, (O.)» Regrets the feelings of "the friends in Salem" toward their Eastern brethren, indicated by an article in the Bugle. The writer feels "a strong sympathy for our friends, particularly «Jane» Elizabeth «Jones»," who has sacrificed so much for the cause. "The abolitioninsts of this neighborhood chiefly belong to the Liberty party, & of course do not take either of our papers...New subscribors probably prefer the Standard...The Bugle would probably be preferred nearer home." Has not seen Stephen and Abby(Kelley) Foster since the annual meeting at New Garden. Hopes Charles C. Burleigh will come, as expected.

Oct 19

To the honored governor, the deputy governor with the rest of the magistrates and deputies. Petition of the inhabitants of Dorchester.

[Dorchester.] Expresses their allegiance to His Majesty, and reviews the privileges that have been extended to them in the past; states that it shall be their right to resist by force of arms any acts which shall "attempt the detriment or annoyance of this plantation". Urges the Honored Court to abide by the patent and privileges, and to prevent any injustice upon any church officer; also that no additional tax may be put upon them. A.D. 1p. 13 x 15 1/2 in.

The handwriting of the document is unknown for a certainty. An account of it and a [illegible]ted copy appears in the N.E. Historical and Genealogical Review for 1851, Vol 5, page 393.

To Mrs. Maria (Weston) Chapman

«Cambridge, Indiana» The writer wants to make his position clear in regard to the incident at Syracuse. Conflicting notices were given of a "property convention" and of an anti-slavery meeting for the same afternoon. The next day, before adjournment of the morning session, the writer announced the afternoon anti-slavery meeting, whereupon John A. Collins announced a property meeting, and made a speech, referring to the "bigotry and narrowmindedness of abolitionists," etc. Charles L. Remond replied, expressing "the belief that the Board of Managers could not sanction him (Collins) as their general agent." Then Collins [illegible] documents complimentary to himself, and presented four [illegible]itions, which the writer quotes, to the effect that t[illegible]nniversal reform movement will benefit the slave more than the anti-slavery movement alone. In the afternoon the writer at the meeting posed the question "whether it was just or honorable for Mr.Collins to labor in the one [cause] for the distruction [sic] of the other," and closed by saying that if the Board sanctioned Mr. Collins's course, the writer felt it his duty to resign his agency for carrying out the plan of the hundred conventions.

18 Aug. To Mrs. Maria (Weston) Chapman

«London» The writer did not "doubt the purity of intention" which led the addressee to write about him as she did to Mr. R.D. Webb. Yet he would have thought it more friendly if she had chosen to give her counsel directly "and free from what I must regard an uncalled for and invidious comparison of myself and Mr. «J.N.» Buffum." George Thompson urged the writer to attend the British & Foreign Anti.Slavery Society meeting, mainly in the interest of the Free Church agitation. The writer told the meeting that he was an old organizationist. In Carlisle, England, the writer secured contributions for the Boston fair.

To Mrs. Maria (Weston) Chapman No.137

«Nantucket, Mass.» The writer requests the addressee to have the writer's name enrolled with the Non-Resistants. While the writer has long believed the taking of human life under any circumstances to be a crime, she supposed some of the doctrines of the Non-Resistance Society to go beyond what was necessary; but listening to Henry C. Wright, she has been convinced of the contrary. The writer praises H. C. Wright enthusiastically, and affirms her own devotion to the principles of Non-Resistance.

No.149

«Leominster, Mass.» Sends a few articles for the fair. Characterizes the abolitionists in the town: some are for political action, a few are for moral suasion, "some are for mute suasion," that is "expediency." Mentions as outstanding in active zeal and generosity Mrs. L.L. Walker and Mr. Isaac Smith, who finances the lecturers. Two years ago, at the suggestion of Abby Kelley, an A.S. Sewing Society was formed, which worked for the American A.S.Society. Soon, however, they were called upon to change their constitution in the interest of New Organization, whereupon the writer withdrew, preferring to work "singly and alone, fo[illegible]he old school."

To Mrs. Maria (Weston) Chapman No.58

[Leominster, Mass.] The writer proposes to form a society to be called the Leominster Garrisonian Anti-Slavery Society; this name is chosen "because I feel sure it will not be taken from us by any other society, as it is so odious to many persons." The writer withdrew from the Leominster female Anti-Slavery Society because of its sectarian and new organizational character. Having called a meeting at her house for those disposed to aid the Mass.A.S. fair, the writer requests the addressee to send an appeal to the ladies of Leominster to be read at the occasion. Asks also that the addressee include "a very emphatic ('thank you, [illegible]es' for your efforts."

«Leominster (Mass.)» The addressee's instructive letter was read to the writer's little society. The writer quotes remarks of sceptics who wonder what "those few women think they can do to abolish slavery." Complains at length about the negative attitude of "our clergy & our physicians & the most influential among our church members." The writer was able to collect for the Western (A.S.) Mission no more than $2.25 from persons of standing and property. The Unitarian minister said he could not "consistently do anything for the Mass. society so long as they send out such men as Collins and Remond." The Unitarian church in this [illegible]n is by far the most popular;

but "not a member of that church will do a thing..." The writer has been accused of keeping some fifty ladies from joining the (A.S.) Society, because she was "so familiar with colored people," having gone to ride and walk with the Remonds.

«Leominster, Mass.» The writer fears that her society will not be able to accomplish much fancy work because it now numbers only five working women. "The sectarians have been advising some of our society not to work for the Mass. Society, saying their only object was to pull down every good institution in the land etc." Mentions especially the Canada mission advocates. The writer has invited Mr. (Wendell) Phillips to lecture next week in Leominster. Third Party are using "every means in their power to obtain voters for the coming election". James Gordon Carter lectured for them last week, John Pierpont and Joshua Leavitt are [illegible]cture. Asks about matters pertaining to the fair. Expects [illegible] or more to be contributed.

«Leominster,Mass.» Is sending some evergreen for trimmings. They will send from Leominster about forty-five dollars' worth of articles. The writer has received enough material to increase the amount to 60 dollars, "but I cannot raise help for love or money. I now have to sit up till one oclock to get them (the articles) ready. This will account for my ~~touchiness~~ tardiness ...I am at times almost disheartened, when I see what I have to do with my poor feeble eyes & my little ones to care for..."

‹Leominster, Mass.› The writer acknowledges receipt of books for distribution, but has received only eight instead of the expected twelve sets of Liberty Bells for 1843. Gives a list of women's names in the different towns (of Worcester County) to whom the printed matter was sent. The writer is glad to hear of a new Executive Committee of the American Anti-Slavery Society, as she had feared last winter that the "Standard & all would sink." Favors holding conventions in every state. Suggests "sending out some lady to the conventions, to get up sewing circles." The writer learned the importance of such a move when she was with Abby K[illegible]y. Discusses country women's ignorance of "their rights an[illegible]ivileges in this cause" and feels the day is coming when women will be fitted for higher duties"... than superintending the dinner pot & wash tub ..."

.Leominster, (Mass.). The writer is sending greenery for the Anti-Slavery fair. Her time has all been taken up recently "in the Texas warfare," circulating the Petition, walking from house to house, battling "the stupid Whigs, & the wicked Democrats." One old Federalist told the writer that women could not know anything about politics but what the men told them. The writer obtained over 300 names, mostly of women; if she had circulated the petition among men, she would have had twice the number of signatures. Requests the addressee to find a home for Miss Maria Richardson for the first three days of the Fair.

«Leominster,(Mass.)» The writer is worried because, of the two friends whom she introduced as helpers at the fair, Miss Blodgett received two Liberty Bells, and Miss Richardson none, although the former is "not a laborer," while Miss Richardson is "one of the most faithful laborers in the field." The writer is testing the anti-slavery zeal of the local Unitarians by sending material for work to their sewing circle. The writer, having to retrench, has limited her personal expenses, except for board, to six dollars a year; but will not give up the Liberator as long as she can live on two meals a day. Feels encou[illegible]d by some growth of interest in the cause, and by the sy[illegible]y of the Unitarian minister, Hiram Withington.

⌊Leominster, Mass.⌋ Acknowledges letter and books (Liberty Bells). Has sent Miss R(ichardson) her copy, and is gratified to have her know that her not receiving it previously was due to a mistake, as Miss Richardson "seemed rather inclined to think that Miss Blodgett had proved herself better entitled to consideration than herself." In regard to circulating the Liberator, the writer suggests the addressee write to Mrs. Olive Hastings of Lancaster, where the paper is not taken. The writer and her husband have already collected eight dollars toward the fund for agencies.
